A little bit about Mark Evershed

Mark is a family man and a lifelong resident of Toronto, Canada. He grew up around two of the legends of Canadian golf, Moe Norman and George Knudson, and had a chance to observe these great golf swings first hand.

Mark has taught some of Canada's standout PGA Tour professionals Ian Leggatt and David Morland IV and has won many prestigious awards including the 2005 Canadian PGA Teacher of the Year.

When asked about Mark Evershed's impact a number of PGA professionals reacted very strongly, stating:

"...I think so much of Mark Evershed, not just as a brilliant golf instructor and coach, but also as a human being",

"He's the best, at least in my book. He's a gold nugget waiting to be found"

"He was the first person to give me a road map for improvement that was founded on facts rather than illusions"

"His enthusiasm is contagious and he always inspires me."

Mark Evershed's Philosophy

Mark Evershed believes that given the correct information in an organized manner, humans can learn anything. "Correct information" means acquiring knowledge and "organized manner" means proper teaching sequences. The golf swing is a series of motions that must be learned and understood and then performed in the correct sequence.

We invite you as a Canadian PGA Professional to develop your teaching ability with an intensive one day development camp conducted by Mark Evershed, Canada's top ranked Teaching Professional. This is a very hands-on learning environment and an experience not to be missed.

Development Camp will be offered over three days. Each day will consist of 6 hours of seminar with a one hour lunch break.

Cost $300 + GST per person.
